

What do you get when you combine a clinical psychologist and a stand-up comedian?

Dr. Matt Bellace
and a very unordinary
Boot Camp for Parents!

AROUND EVERY CORNER Parent Education Series

“Young people need to feel empowered in their schools and communities. It is not enough to ask them to stay away from drugs and alcohol, we need to show them there are positive things they can do for themselves and others. They must all be leaders in their lives.”

Matt Bellace is a neuropsychologist, motivational speaker and comedian who weaves all these areas of expertise, personal stories and comedy into a presentation you won't soon forget. He has enlightened and entertained thousands of parents and teens across the country by deftly combining humor, science and audience participation to share his very powerful message: we need to support young people in both words and actions if we want them to make healthy choices for themselves.

Matt recognizes that one of the most challenging times for parents occurs while their children go through the adolescent years. Boot Camp for Parents focuses on how parents can communicate with their teens — without arguing! Based on the latest research in adolescent brain development, Matt presents real-life examples that show how to engage teens in conversations about responsibility, healthy coping skills, alcohol and other drug use.

It's free. It's great entertainment. And it will give any parent new insights into how to keep teens healthy and safe — and laughing.

January 31, 2013 7:00 – 8:30pm

Tiverton High School Auditorium Free Admission

For more information, contact the Tiverton Prevention Coalition.
Call 401.835.5311 or e-mail Rebecca@TivertonPrevention.org

Creative: O'Toole + Parr

Matt's New Book!

A Better High is a humorous look at natural highs like laughing, helping, loving and more. For more information about Dr. Bellace, log on to MattBellace.com

